It's 2020, and there's no shortage of memes that have engulfed the Internet. It didn't take long before the latest memes inspire meme lovers to create their own hilarious versions and flood social media feeds everywhere with them. You can count on many of the newest memes to come from major events or trends in entertainment, sports, fashion, politics, news and other common topics of interest. For example, you should be able to discover many following memes from popular TV shows, Hollywood gossip, reality shows, TV sports games and even technological innovations. The latest memes are used just as they always are - on social networks like tweets, images, GIFs and short videos. Whether you're reblogging a meme on Tumblr or using a meme as a funny reaction to an image of a hypothetical situation described in a twitter tweet, there's almost no wrong way to use a meme in 2020 as long as your intention is to be funny (and not offensive). To bring you up to speed, here are just 20 of the absolute best and funniest memes we've seen so far in 2020. Screenshot: KnowYourMeme.com We all get some level of satisfaction from some guilty pleasures that we would rather keep secret. This still image of Patrick Star from the spongebobie pants episode perfectly captures the sinful delight you may feel at the moment of engaging in something disgraceful. Screenshot: KnowYourMeme.com Knuckles is an original character from Sonic the Hedgehog, which was twisted into an obscure photoshop version and intended to be used by trolls as avatars in the multiplayer social game VRChat. Trolls pester other players using lines from the Ugandan film in a heavy accent, making the meme both oddly funny and somewhat controversial. Screenshot: YouTube.com Cheerleaders have always maintained a reputation at the top of the social ladder, but says nothing: I'm much better than you, like this girl's cheeky facial expression right before she and her cheer squad start breaking it down. Screenshot: Twitter.com If Smug Cheerleader has captured the attention of the Internet, then it's no wonder why still the image of Michaela Coel from the black mirror episode too. Complacency and sass go hand in hand, and the internet may not seem to get enough. Screenshot: YouTube.com It's interesting when you get a rare chance to meet a true celebrity, but kind of a bummer when you're too young to even know who Justin Timberlake is. Maybe a Google search will help him? Screenshot: KnowYourMeme.com The Kardashians are too popular not to poke fun at, and this game to name Kim really brings a new meaning to hitting the gym. Are you even going to get up, Kim? Screenshot: Instagram.com Speaking of the Kardashians, we can't forget Kylie's unexpected pregnancy. It was gossip worthy enough to inspire countless memes, in that this still image of people on the Internet has taken to using as a reaction to hypothetical situations involving meeting any slightly attractive person. Man. 9gag.com Google's free mobile app Art and Culture now has a feature that uses facial recognition technology to match your selfie with items of famous paintings and sculptures. As you can tell from all the memes, its accuracy seems to be right on point! Screenshot: BuzzFeed Everyone knows what it's like to be completely lost when trying to follow the conversation, and Cardi B is on the red carpet at the Grammys all of us when we all really think, I have no idea what you're talking about. Screenshot: Cheezburger.com no one should consume poisonous cleaning products of any kind, but the internet has somehow managed to run a meme of these delicious-looking detergent capsules. Yes, it's funny, but remember they're seriously not candy-they're poison! Screenshot: YouTube.com Since Oscar night, people around the world are asking what intense awareness Jennifer Garner had during this clip of her cheering with the crowd. The actress has since admitted that she has no idea what came to her in those moments, and even felt uncomfortable becoming such a popular meme. Screenshot: KnowYourMeme.com here's the meme that first debuted in 2016 at the Summer Olympics in Rio de Janeiro super hunky, super oiled before the standard-bearer made a comeback at the 2018 Winter Olympics in Pyeongchang, and the boy was all ladies glad he did! Screenshot: KnowYourMeme.com The Man Who Coined the Term YOLO is back with another meme inspired by his new music video for his song, God's Plan. Because when something even remotely good happens to someone, God's plan is bound to start playing somewhere in the background. Screenshot: YouTube.com there are always strange things going on in the fashion industry, but watching a bunch of Gucci models walk the runway carrying realistic copies of their own heads is apparently nothing short of inspiring. People take the challenge to recreate the trend by asking their friends or relatives to hide their bodies behind them as they hold their heads in their hands. Screenshot: Imgflip.com YouTuber with a conservative debate show called Change My Mind provided the perfect new meme template for the funniest topics of discussion. Pluto is not a planet. Change your mind! Screenshot: Twitter.com the image of the vocalist The Killers has become an icon of every sad thought anyone has ever had. Just take a look at the hashtag #SadBrandon Twitter to read all the sad stories. Screenshot: Me.me Marvel fans have been going crazy since the Avengers: Infinity War trailer came out. Calling it an epic would be a complete understatement, and fans have been using the power of their enthusiasm to create hoards of memes about it.
